Her parents first met when her US Navy seaman father, a veteran of President Teddy Roosevelt's "Great White Fleet", arrived at the Irish port city of Cobh while serving aboard the battleship "USS Minnesota". They corresponded for several years. He later returned to Europe to find, court and marry her upon his discharge from the Navy. Sheehan, by then a seasoned veteran of North African and southern European Campaigns. They were married in 1945. After post war duty stations that included France, Italy and Germany, Pat and Jim settled in Northern Kentucky. Pat became mother to 7 children in her first 9 years of marriage. Pat later returned to her passion for nursing as a Public Health Nurse for the State of Florida managing nursing facilities at numerous Dade county schools and coordinating the training of first time mothers until retirement. Pat believed in Community. She was an active volunteer with Catholic Charities, Notre Dame Academy, and St. Rose of Lima Parish and School in the Miami, Florida area .
