“ Adam will be missed. He spent time with me at my new home in tennessee a few times the last couple years and he had a sparkle in his eyes when he was here with me. He seemed so at peace and said time after time he new where he wanted to spend his time at a later date. For someone so quite he sure had a lot to say when he was on top of the clinch mountain where I live. We spent some special times together and he had a favorite spot at my house that overlooked my lake and the mountains. I've marked and named that spot for and after him. I will still talk to him from time to time at this spot that's for sure and I'm sure he will be there with me. God bless him with all the love there is to give.
