“ I had the great honor of knowing Mrs. Matthews as both a student and a colleague. At Deer Park High School she was my 10th grade English teacher and later as a fellow teacher. She was a kind, caring teacher with a regal demeanor about her. I had the utmost respect for her and her kindness. Mrs. Matthews was an "old school" teacher from a gentler time....a good role model for those of us who followed in her footsteps. Deer Park High School was fortunate to have her for the many years she walked the halls. May she rest in peace.

“ Mrs. Matthews was my 7th grade homeroom teacher when I first came to Deer Park after many years of changing schools all over the country. She was a warm, caring teacher who was truly my "port in the storm" at that time, as well as an excellent English teacher. I went on to become a teacher myself, and never forgot how important her calm, steady manner was to students. I am so glad to hear that she lived such a long, interesting life. Her Southern charm and elegance brought a touch of dignity and grace as she taught us the nuances of our language and introduced us to the world of fine literature. How blessed we are to have had the good fortune to have been touched by her life. May she rest in peace.

“ We remember Mary Lou from Deer Park High School. We taught junior and senior English at Deer Park, but Mary Lou was the foundation and cornerstone of sophomore English classes at DPHS. She was an excellent teacher, prepared well by her fine education at Transylvania University. She was greatly loved by her students. She demanded the best from all her students but handled the discipline in her classes with a firm, yet gentle, always kind and understanding hand. One of her favorite teaching novels was Thornton Wilder's, The Bridge of San Luis Rey, which she brought to life for her sophomore students. She was a classy, good Southern lady. It was a pleasure to teach with her in our Deer Park English Department. Bless her; she was a treasure.
