“ Anna -

*What do you say to someone, whose heart is broken in two
Whose loss is unimaginable, and you wish it were not true
How can you help to mend their heart, and take their pain away
I wish I had the magic words, and knew just what to say
But only God knows your heart, and only he knows why
My words, though they mean so well, will only make you cry
So I will bend my knees in prayer, and lift you up to him
In hopes that he will give you peace, and make you whole again.*
KS

My heart is broken for you. I know how much your Dad meant to you. May God fill your heart with light and your mind with all the beautiful memories you shared with your Dad. You and your family will be on my mind and in my prayers.
